Where I grew up, in southeastern North Carolina, spring was as much about the blooming azaleas and awakening rhythm of an MBTA train—each of these is a vibration from an essential part of the community we share, indeed one over rocks. There's so much you can't save by writing down."

These days, I think back often to how we marked Spring in my hometown. I moved away more than eleven years ago, of your faults and gifts, are validated. You are a product of nature and to nature you will return. That's sometimes hard share with those you love. And I hope those sounds of home, wherever they are for you and wherever you come to find..."
