Röpke-Wojtyła Fellowships 2020-2021

The Röpke-Wojtyła Fellowships are designed to support the next generation of students in their studies. Röpke-Wojtyła Fellowships are awarded to outstanding senior-level undergraduate students majoring in the humanities or social sciences. Fellows will participate in an orientation program and will participate in 2-3 days of training prior to the program. Peer Leaders can move back and forth between campus and their communities.

The purpose of the fellowship is to enable students to pursue intellectual interests and to encourage them to take the initiative in their own growth as scholars and interfaith leaders of the next generation. Fellows will engage in training on research methods, writing, and public speaking. Fellows will also have the opportunity to interact with a variety of groups and organizations, including religious communities, academic institutions, and governmental agencies.

Of particular interest is the development of the Fellow’s ability to critically engage intellectual traditions and authors they might not otherwise encounter during their studies. Röpke-Wojtyła Fellowships are awarded to students who demonstrate excellence and potential for leadership in their field of study. Fellows are expected to attend orientation, training, and other activities as well as to complete a research project over the course of their fellowship.

Looking for work for Fall 2020? Interested in becoming more involved with the Tufts LGBT Center? Consider becoming a Peer Leader! Peer Leaders can move back and forth between campus and their communities and help other students discover resources on campus, in the community, and beyond.
