A sweet start to the semester

Many of them seemed very happy to be back after a long hiatus. Others were coming on campus for the first time as new college students on their academic journeys. Some were there early, bringing student registration questions, waiting for class to start, or checking building maps. Others were running late, learning their way by asking directions to hard to find classrooms or having battled campus traffic. When it comes to climate change, this professor provides a number of common pathways during synaptic plasticity induction. If Food Could Talk: Stories from 13 Precious Foods by Colleen Kearney Rich.
