The indefatigable members of The Human Health and Climate Change (HHCC) student group
Jeremy Alberga, Deputy Director, Global Health Group, IGHS
Sheri Weiser, MD, MPH, MA (School of Medicine)
Katherine Gundling, MD (School of Medicine) contributing important links.

A big thank you to the Office of Sustainability and Gail Lee for supporting the Newsletter’s production and for Periodic funding opportunities for trainees organization
For more information, contact offsets.” How can we engage the entire UCSF community in an “all in” strategy to change the culture of faculty travel?

Interested in the carbon footprint of faculty travel? Join our students Colin Baylen and Stephen Ettinger, along with

----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------

Friday of October. Stay tuned.

scheduled for May 15th, is cancelled. Depending on the status of COVID-19, the event may occur the first or second

UCSF Osher MiniMedical School for the Public: “The Health Emergency of Climate Change”

Events

Tuesday Evenings, Starting April 28th

Is your medical society a member of the

Information

Get to know the

Human Health and Climate Change

Information

Opportunities for Action

UCSF has strong local, national, and international partnerships that should be expanded and nourished to

4. UCSF has strong local, national, and international partnerships that should be expanded and nourished to

3. The UCSF community needs enhanced pathways to translate Climate Health research into education and

2. Work in silos has inhibited collaboration among many dedicated and talented community members. There

1. The Faculty, students, staff, normally connected and engaged by Dialogue together and in the spirit of a discussion of global warming and train Climate Health leaders of the future – if the community acts quickly to breakout groups to discuss Research, Education/Clinical Care and Advocacy.

Here are

The 60 faculty, students, staff and community members who attended the Dialogue met together and in

Self-assessment of strengths, challenges and opportunities for building a robust response to the health

UCSF Climate Health Newsletter

Welcome to the First UCSF Climate Health Newsletter

The time is now, and the place is UCSF.”

“We have the opportunity to make a significant difference to planetary and patient health in the 21st century. The time is now, and the place is UCSF.”

2019

Medical Students Call On Us

You to vote for Climate Action & Health

In what ways does the UCSF community engage with Climate Health Now?

Philosophical, environmental, and existential lessons learned that might inform the rebuilding of day to day lives, as well as professional and societal

Here are the summary points and take-home messages from the Dialogue:

Here are

1. The UCSF Osher MiniMedical School for the Public will present the following events:

For more information, please contact at least one of seven cross-cutting areas.

Information, Events, Opportunities for Action

UCSF Climate Health Dialogue

HC-500, a new small molecule that can reduce chronic inflammation, has been shown to possess better offsets.” How can we engage the entire UCSF community in an “all in” strategy to change the culture of faculty travel?

1. UCSF may be perceived as a national intellectual capital, a golden beacon, and a role model, and yet we have

The two topics—climate and pandemics—are intricately related, and next month’s Newsletter will consider by 2030.

In the spirit of a discussion of global warming, and train Climate Health leaders of the future – if the community acts quickly to

The changing climate, with its associated threats of

Before the pandemic, many faculty, students, and staff of UCSF were already concerned about climate change and

Prior to the pandemic, many faculty, students, and staff of UCSF were already concerned about climate change and opportunities at UCSF. By instituting a platform for Climate Health communication, the Newsletter aims to augment and accelerate what UCSF does best: advance the related science, education, clinical care, and advocacy for present and future generations.

Lessons learned from the pandemic may inform the rebuilding of day to day lives, as well as professional and societal

Earth Day offers both humbling and energizing

April 22nd

Scientists to support Pandemic Preparedness, and for our community to read, act, and think about climate

2021

60th anniversary of Earth Day

5. The UCSF community needs enhanced pathways to translate Climate Health research into education and

4. UCSF has strong local, national, and international partnerships that should be expanded and nourished to

A new platform for Climate Health communication, the Newsletter aims to opportunities at UCSF. By instituting a platform for Climate Health communication, the Newsletter aims to

Global warming is the most potent reminder, however, of the large-scale potential for pandemics to change life as we know it in a

The two topics—climate and pandemics—are intricately related, and next month’s Newsletter will consider

The two topics—climate and pandemics—are intricately related, and next month’s Newsletter will consider

In many national and international conferences, a unit of mass was often confused with a unit of energetic cost. How can we engage the entire

In many national and international conferences, a unit of mass was often confused with a unit of energetic cost. How can we engage the entire

In many national and international conferences, a unit of mass was often confused with a unit of energetic cost. How can we engage the entire

In many national and international conferences, a unit of mass was often confused with a unit of energetic cost. How can we engage the entire

In many national and international conferences, a unit of mass was often confused with a unit of energetic cost. How can we engage the entire

In many national and international conferences, a unit of mass was often confused with a unit of energetic cost. How can we engage the entire

The two topics—climate and pandemics—are intricately related, and next month’s Newsletter will consider

In many national and international conferences, a unit of mass was often confused with a unit of energetic cost. How can we engage the entire

The two topics—climate and pandemics—are intricately related, and next month’s Newsletter will consider

In many national and international conferences, a unit of mass was often confused with a unit of energetic cost. How can we engage the entire

The two topics—climate and pandemics—are intricately related, and next month’s Newsletter will consider

In many national and international conferences, a unit of mass was often confused with a unit of energetic cost. How can we engage the entire

The two topics—climate and pandemics—are intricately related, and next month’s Newsletter will consider

In many national and international conferences, a unit of mass was often confused with a unit of energetic cost. How can we engage the entire

The two topics—climate and pandemics—are intricately related, and next month’s Newsletter will consider

In many national and international conferences, a unit of mass was often confused with a unit of energetic cost. How can we engage the entire

The two topics—climate and pandemics—are intricately related, and next month’s Newsletter will consider

In many national and international conferences, a unit of mass was often confused with a unit of energetic cost. How can we engage the entire

The two topics—climate and pandemics—are intricately related, and next month’s Newsletter will consider

In many national and international conferences, a unit of mass was often confused with a unit of energetic cost. How can we engage the entire

The two topics—climate and pandemics—are intricately related, and next month’s Newsletter will consider

In many national and international conferences, a unit of mass was often confused with a unit of energetic cost. How can we engage the entire

The two topics—climate and pandemics—are intricately related, and next month’s Newsletter will consider

In many national and international conferences, a unit of mass was often confused with a unit of energetic cost. How can we engage the entire