Homecoming: Welcome Science Alumnii!

Here’s what’s happening around the College of Science.

For our Fall 2018 Homecoming Tailgate and Now that these have become a tradition of Clemson’s Homecoming games against A.J. State on Oct. 6. If you plan to come support the game, register for the event and come join us.

Join us for the first SCIENCE Homecoming Tailgate Oct. 20, 2018, in the Hunter Breezeway.

Our faculty are tackling tomorrow’s greatest scientific challenges and preparing the next generation of scientists. With your help, we will lead world-class scientific discovery, learning, and engagement that is both locally relevant and globally impactful.

In August, I shared with you our new strategic plan and encouraged our SCIENCE community to share their ideas. We have received a positive response from many and are offering shadowing opportunities for our students. Many of our Science alumni are engaging through the online mentoring program and are stepping up to endow scholarships and professorships to help us attract the best and brightest talent to Clemson. These gifts enable me to strategically invest in priorities to help advance Science forward at Clemson.

In August, we launched the new Center for Human Genetics. The Center received $1.87 million from the National Institutes of Health to advance research aimed at understanding the impact of genetic variations in human disease. Its Iowa research grant will partner with us topai...
