March 2020

COVID-19: Worker Health in Public Health

The impact of COVID-19 is unprecedented, and many workers need direct support as their livelihood has been impacted. The LA Black Worker Center has a mutual aid campaign to assist those in need or who are exposed to the dangerous conditions related to workplace health and safety.

The LA Black Worker Center has a mutual aid campaign to assist those in need or who are exposed to the dangerous conditions related to workplace health and safety.

We're proud to share that the LA Black Worker Center has a mutual aid campaign to assist those in need or who are exposed to the dangerous conditions related to workplace health and safety.

Worksafe's board of directors has been busy hosting virtual meetings with our network of workers and advocates about a variety of workplace health and safety issues related to workplace health and wildfires. To make sure that workers and advocates are protected, Worksafe is working on a permanent wildfire smoke standard that clarifies employer obligations and provides basic protections for workers.

The new standard clarifies employer obligations and provides basic protections for workers. The temporary regulation has been in place since March and must be considered in light of day-to-day realities facing vulnerable workers and communities.

In Solidarity,

Cheryl Wallach
Carisa Harris-Adamson

Oakland, CA | 94612 US

View this email

www.worksafe.org   |   1736 Franklin St. #500, Oakland, CA 94612