This email was sent to [Image]

Share this email: [Image]

including though a classroom" with positive mental health and wellness content student.

A consultation with Counseling Services can help you identify the next steps, appropriate resources, and services for your TOMORROW! Tour the Museum of Natural and Cultural History: Edward Davis, Condon Fossil Collection Director, has invited new faculty (first 3 years at UO) to join him for a tour on Tuesday, October 11 at 2:00pm. Mark your calendars for future faculty open invitations.

Mindset Student Experience Survey: Next week, you can begin exploring changes to AEC's non-perfective mindset learning from faculty and GE instructors about how to support student mental health and wellness.

High Enrollment Online Courses CATT: UO Online is providing guidance to join a new, advanced CATT Community. Your faculty, staff, and administrators are working together to improve learning outcomes for all students. You can sign up to receive notifications about upcoming events and resources.

RESOURCES

NEW! Faculty Community Canvas site: This new resource includes numerous modules, teaching tips, and interactive resources for high-enrollment online classes through lenses of both pedagogy and inclusive design. Regional and Cross-Campus CATT communities will collaborate to identify and share effective strategies and practices that will improve the quality of education for all students.

Campus Networking: Support is available in the form of Canvas sites with course materials, student engagement tools, and assessment strategies. Faculty and GE instructors will connect you to your peers and the wider University community.

Accessible Education: You should have received a message from Angie Allmendinger, Academic Engagement GE Counselor, regarding Canvas sites for accessibility support. This includes course materials for students with disabilities, and tools and strategies to support your students.

You are being sent this message based on your affiliation with the University of Oregon.