November 2024

Dear Colleague,

Greetings from snow-covered Saskatchewan! Arriving home from Tanzania a couple of days ago, I was greeted by over four feet of fresh snow. Nothing says "welcome home" quite like a winter wonderland.

During my time in Tanzania, I had the opportunity to visit all five Karibu Camps & Lodges located in prime locations throughout the country's northern safari belt: Ngorongoro Lion's Paw, Serengeti Woodlands Camp, Serengeti Sametu Camp, Serengeti Mara River Camp, and Elephant Springs Camp. I'm more than happy to provide training on any (our all) of these incredible camps if you'd like to book a 1:1 with me here.

There's still some extreme last-minute holiday availability at Garonga Safari Co. in South Africa, where they have three rooms available for Christmas and New Year's.

Meanwhile, Happy Thanksgiving to all my American colleagues! May your holiday be filled with family, friends and great food.

Enjoy the final month until Christmas... The countdown is officially upon us!

Warm regards,

Jenna, Jane, Ana & Paula

How Elephants Finally Became My Friends

Norma-Jean Naude, manager of Garonga's MCH Private Tented Camp. Explains how she learned to understand and embrace the majesty of the largest animal in the South African bush.

Growing up on a farm in South Africa, she only truly felt at home when she was in the bush. From sliding in the mud on your belly after heavy rains and swimming in reservoirs or water troughs filled with all sorts of living organisms, she knew this was the life she wanted to continue to live.
