Electrical engineering alumnus enjoys his design lifecycle immersion »

The University of Alabama in Huntsville (UAH) broadly shaped who he is today as an engineer, says Matthew Rodencal, who graduated with a bachelor's degree in electrical engineering in December 2013 and pursued a master's in electrical engineering until 2015.

"UAH shaped so much of who I am as an engineer that it's hard to narrow down just a handful of experiences that have helped me succeed," says Rodencal, a native of Marietta, Ga., who today works as an electrical design engineer at Sanmina-Sci Corp. in Huntsville.

Jonathan Shields' passion for gaming leads to UAH computer science degree »

Jonathan Shields' love of computer games began at age six, when his parents gave him a GBC (Game Boy Color). But Shields, who graduated with a bachelor's degree from the College of Science at The University of Alabama in Huntsville (UAH) last month, is more interested in the games the computer allows him to play than the complex features of the electronic brain.

Alumni Association seeks nominations »

Nominations for The University of Alabama (UAH) Alumni Association Alumni of Achievement awards and for the UAH Alumni Association Board of Directors are now open.

An earlier start date for Alumni of Achievement nominations will provide more opportunity for the public, UAH faculty and UAH staff to consider nominating alumni.
