Starting the new year off right!

January is a great time to look through your beauty products and evaluate what is being used and what is old. Most products have 2-year expiry date, but we suggest that with organic products you dispose of after a year regardless of if the product is empty. WHY??? Organic products such as Eminence have no chemical preservatives. For optimal performance, the FDA (food and drug administration) recommends mascara be tossed every few months due to the higher risk of bacteria in the eye area. We have some tips and tricks for getting the most out of your beauty products this year.

- All of Eminence Jars include a spatula to avoid contamination instead of scooping out with your fingers. It also has a small groove to remind you that a little amount goes a long way. Most of Eminence products need less than a dime size amount.
- Make sure to close all lids tight to ensure product isn't drying out and remains fresh especially if stored in the shower area where water might get into container
- Evaluate what you have all of Tangles products are guaranteed when recommended by a Tangles team member, so if something isn't working talk to the staff member. A small adjustment like the amount you are using could make the difference between loving it and hating it.
- Tangles offers "style like a pro" blow-dry lessons a 30 min blow-dry service that your stylist will recommend products and give you tips and tricks. You can also choose to get involved with your lesson and bring your own tools and products, so we can replicate the style with what you have to use at home. We also offer makeup lessons and skin care analysis with the same service. Often times one product can have multiple uses and we can show you when to use it and how to apply it. We can show you how to get longevity out of a product customized for you.
- It's great to use Tangles staff recommendations, not only is your product guaranteed but you won't end up with product under your sink that are never used because they don't work for you.

To book a beauty lesson with one of our Tangles team members give the salon a call 905 953 8980 we can book you in with a staff member that can give you the best advice to keep you looking and feeling your best all of 2020!
