Protestant and Roman Catholics observe it. "Passion Sunday." Orthodox Christians often observe this Sunday on a date different from the date on which Pascha. In some churches, Palm Sunday is combined with the anticipation of Christ's death and so is also known as the "Sunday of the Passion." It celebrates the entry of Jesus into Jerusalem, marking the beginning of Holy Week that culminates in Easter or the Day of Resurrection. Passion Sunday is observed in various traditions as a day of reflection and sorrow over Christ's suffering.

Easter is a significant holiday in Christianity, celebrated as the day of Christ's resurrection from the dead. It is observed by Christians worldwide and is one of the most important and widely celebrated holidays in the Christian calendar. The exact date of Easter varies each year based on the lunar calendar used to calculate the date of Passover, which is typically the first full moon following the vernal equinox. The combination of these dates results in the celebration of Easter falling on different days from year to year.

These events are drawn from the multifaith calendar maintained by the Office of Religious and Spiritual Life at Tufts University. The calendar includes a variety of religious and spiritual events from different traditions, highlighting the diversity of spiritual practices and beliefs on campus. It serves as a resource for students and faculty to engage with religious and spiritual activities that reflect the campus's inclusivity and support for spiritual well-being.

As we enter into Holy Week this year, following Jesus on the Way of the Cross, we do so as the Body of Christ. This is a time for reflection and remembrance of Christ's sacrifice for our sins.

Congratulations to the CAFE Coordinator and Support Staffer Abdul-Malik Merchant at chaplaincy@tufts.edu. For more information, please contact Muslim Chaplain for a Zoom meeting.

Join PSA in the tradition of Senior Sermons this Sunday. Senior Elliot Pavlovich (pictured below) reflects, "Being an engineer might not be the first thing you think of when you think of me, but I love what I do. It's always been my identity," and "Christ's death on the cross is a great sacrifice that we should remember and reflect on."
