An Invitation from your Catholic Chaplain

Dear Jumbos,

Whenever I see a flash of red maple leaves, I am transported back to Fall 2020. That was, of course, such a challenging time but it was during that semester that we first rolled out Be-Friend, our interfaith friendship program. Be-Frienders are students, faculty, and staff. They commit to spending an hour with their partner each week to think and feel together with spiritual practices written by our multifaith team of chaplains. One week that fall, our then Buddhist Chaplain invited folks to contemplate this passage from Thich Nhat Hanh:

"About thirty years ago I was looking for an English word to describe our deep interconnection with everything else. I liked the word “togetherness,” but I finally came up with the word “interbeing.” The verb “to be” can be misleading, because we cannot be by ourselves, alone. “To be” is always to “inter-be.” If we combine the prefix “inter” with the verb “to be,” we have a new verb, “inter-be.” To inter-be and the action of interbeing reflects reality more accurately. We inter-are with one another and with all life. [1]

When I reached out to connect with each participant mid-way through the term, I received a moving email by one student whose reflections on this passage continued to reverberate in her daily life. It was she who took this photo of the maple tree above. To her, this single image communicated the spirit of Thich Nhat Hanh’s verb inter-being. The tree in its autumnal glow, the walkers in the background, the baby carriage on the left—they reminded her that she was part of something much larger than herself. They reminded her of her ‘inter-being’ with others and with creation. It was no small thing to experience such a profound moment of deep connection during that time of loneliness and isolation. She shared these insights with her partner and was generous enough to share them with me as well.

Three years on, the echoes and wisdom of this exchange continue to ring out. Just this morning on my walk, scarlet leaves called me into a different posture—a more critical awareness of and reverence for our connectedness to one another, our shared inter-being. It is with love that I pass along the invitation to dwell with these provocations and to maybe even explore them with a friend: Through your own lens, what does inter-being look like today? What does it sound like right now? How might this campus be a place that lifts up and celebrates our inter-being?

With deep care,
Lynn Cooper

In Living Memory: A Concert of Stories and Songs
Thursday, November 2, 7:00 p.m., Goddard Chapel

Join students and staff from the University Chaplaincy, the Latinx Center, the LGBT Center, the Indigenous Center, and the SMFA for In Living Memory: A Concert of Stories and Songs. The evening will feature music, performances by Public Harmony, sQ!, and Ballet Folklórico, and spoken word offerings on the themes of remembering those who have passed, uplifted by the many religious and spiritual holidays this time of year, including Día de los Muertos, Samhain, All Souls Day, All Saints Day, and more. We will also be showcasing an installation of the Ofrenda Project from student artists at the SMFA. Latinx Center, LGBT Center, and Indigenous Center staff, students, and chaplains will speak, and the event will be followed by cocoa and candy outside. Join us for a night of candlelight, meaningful festivities, and treats! Please email program manager Nora Bond with any questions or accessibility needs.

Upcoming Religious Celebrations and Observances

These events are drawn from the multifaith calendar maintained by the Office of Religious and Spiritual Life at Harvard Divinity School. To see more upcoming religious holidays and festivals, please follow the link to the Harvard Divinity School calendar.

Reformation Day
Tue., Oct. 31, 2023
Tradition: Christianity, Protestant
Commemorates the beginning of the Protestant Reformation of Christianity with Martin Luther's challenge to the Roman church in the sixteenth century C.E.

Samhain
Tue., Oct. 31, 2023
Tradition: Wicca, Paganism
The New Year and the final harvest festival, celebrating the last gifts of the Earth before winter and the return of the spirits of the dead.

All Saints Day
Wed., Nov. 1, 2023
Tradition: Christianity-Protestant, Christianity-Roman Catholic
Christian celebration of the lives of all the saints, especially those not having a special day. Orthodox churches observe the day in mid-summer.

All Souls Day
Thu., Nov. 2, 2023
Tradition: Christianity-Roman Catholic
Catholic Christian observance in memory of all the faithful who are deceased. In some Latin cultures, this day is known as "The Day of the Dead."

Diwali (Dipavali)
Sun., Nov. 12, 2023
Tradition: Hinduism
Perhaps the most popular of all Hindu festivals, also known as the Festival of Lights, it is dedicated to the goddess Kali in Bengal and to Lakshmi, the goddess of wealth, in the rest of India. As with several other festivals, Diwali is associated with one of the stories about the destruction of evil by Vishnu in one of his many manifestations.

Diwali/Mahavir Nirvana
Sun., Nov. 12, 2023
Tradition: Jainism
This "Festival of Lamps" celebrates the attainment of Moksa by Lord Mahavira. A burning lamp symbolizes the "light of knowledge," which dispels the darkness of delusion and ignorance.
