Tufts University's New Religious Life Center (TuAG) continues to offer a variety of virtual and in-person events for students and faculty. One notable event is the Women's Collective of Womxn in Hip Hop, which is making history and engaging participants in discussions of collective wellbeing. This Group's focus on queer multiplicities of access, safety, and adaptation is helping to build knowledge and questions with and of the Tufts community, and reflecting on expanding the binary of open and closed that the pandemic has intensified. Through these diverse offerings, TuAG is supporting the well-being and growth of the Tufts community.

In addition to the Women's Collective of Womxn in Hip Hop, TuAG also offers a series of virtual and in-person events, including weekly meditation sessions, a shorter meditation, and full-hour meditations on Fridays. These sessions are led by Buddhist Chaplaincy and are open to all, regardless of religious affiliation or background. Furthermore, TuAG offers Zoom links to any offering listed above, making it easy for students and faculty to join in from anywhere.

For more information about upcoming religious holidays and festivals, please visit the Tufts University website. To learn more about the Women's Collective of Womxn in Hip Hop and their work towards collective wellbeing, please follow the link to their website. For more information about the New Religious Life Center and its offerings, please contact chaplaincy@tufts.edu.