A Message from the Department Chair, Professor Suzanne Boyd

The end of the semester is a time of high emotions. Instructions may be looking forward to getting their grains over with, so they design grades then take a well-deserved break. They may be happily planning holiday events and/or traveling. For students (both undergraduate and graduate), the end of term is likely a time of high stress, at the culmination of a busy semester. Some of us will not be finishing our class successfully despite their efforts.

This next couple of weeks, I take this time one moment at a time. I try to remember the interaction by remembering the other human being is dealing with a whole host of problems most of which are totally unaware. Many of our students have financial insecurities or family complications making final exams and the learning holiday exam stress extra mental.

Our department has the utmost opportunity to impact nearly every UW student. On the whole we have developed a pretty positive reputation on campus, among educators. I frequently get to hear success stories rooted in our actions, and our instructors and students share even more compliments and awards! This is a great situation to be in, but one we must work every day to maintain. So I think back and every time I see you for your service to bring in their own dish or bravery, I hope you continue your work as unique human being, struggling yet full of potential, and strive to treat each of them, and yourself, with compassion.

Looking forward to seeing you all in 2020!

Best,

Suzanne Boyd
