On the Cover
The Peabody blogs this month all look to the past—exploring the story behind a memorable image, reflecting on depictions of fossilized humans, and exploring the Peabody's collection through the lens of the student newspaper circa 1910. We love sharing stories with you!

Miniatures Meet Fossil Humans
Contributed by Ryan Wheeler
While Peabody Director, Dr. Ryan Wheeler, prepared for his fall Human Origins class, he came across a very exciting discovery! Learn more about Squadron Rubin miniatures and how their fossil human figures reference to human evolution.

Behind the Photograph: Traveler in Tweed
Contributed by Emma Lavoie
Who is the traveler in tweed? Our next blog in the Behind the Photograph series identifies this famous Peabody figure and explores the 1948 Andover-Harvard Yukon Expedition. (HINT: This individual was a leader of the project...) Read on to learn more!

Combing through the Phillipian - Part 1
Contributed by Adam Way
Meet our independent researcher, Adam Way! Learn about his work with the Phillipian archives and the Peabody history he has uncovered. Read on for more about Adam's findings, relating to the early acquisitions of some of the Peabody's collections.
