Yukon Expedition

The 1944 and 1948 Andover-Harvard Yukon Project was a series of archaeological and geobotanical expeditions carried out jointly by the Peabody and Harvard University in the Shakwak and Dezadeash Valleys of the southwestern Yukon territory of Canada. This image, taken by Frederick Johnson, depicts the road to the Burwash expedition camp. This image is part of a larger collection of over 1,500 images documenting the Yukon Project. Many of these images can be viewed on the Peabody's Online Collections Catalog. For more information on the Yukon Project check out its publication.

May these readings bring you cheer and your days be merry and bright. As another memorable year comes to an end, we thank all of you for sticking with us and supporting the Peabody. Happy Holidays!
