earth festivities and seasonality. Earth is the element signifying life, growth, and new beginnings. For many cultures, earth festivities are associated with the arrival of spring and the beauty of nature. In Chinese and Japanese cultures, earth festivities are celebrated with the arrival of spring and the blooming of flowers. In Hindu culture, earth festivities are celebrated with the arrival of spring and the beginning of the planting season. In Christianity, earth festivities are celebrated with the arrival of spring and the resurrection of Jesus.

Tradition: Zoroastrianism

Thursday, 4.30 – Monday, 5.4.2020

The final fertility festival, celebrating the Earth's fecundity and anticipating the power of the sun and the Earth in the resurrection. Beltane is the Zoroastrian festival that celebrates the Earth's fertility and the renewal of life. It is a time of celebration and thanksgiving, and it is a time to acknowledge the power of the Earth and the importance of its cycles. Beltane is celebrated with the lighting of bonfires, the burning of symbolic offerings, and the sacrifice of animals. Beltane is a time to reflect on the importance of the Earth and the cycles of life, and it is a time to express gratitude for the gifts of the Earth.

The Holy Month of Ramadan

The Holy Month of Ramadan is the month of fasting during which Muslims who are physically able do not eat or drink from the first sign of dawn until sunset in honor of the first revelations to the Prophet Muhammad. The evening meal at sunset is called iftar, and it is a time for Muslims to break their fast and renew their faith.

Ramadan is a time for Muslims to reflect on the importance of the Prophet Muhammad and the importance of the teachings of Islam. It is a time for Muslims to seek forgiveness for their sins and to make amends for their mistakes. Ramadan is a time for Muslims to strengthen their relationship with Allah and to seek guidance from the Prophet Muhammad.

Harvard Divinity School

Upcoming Religious Holidays and Festivals

The Harvard Divinity School is home to many religious traditions and festivals. The Harvard Divinity School offers a range of resources for those interested in exploring these traditions and festivals.

DC&A invites you to keep a journal or create other documentation of what is happening in your life. Please contact the Program Manager, Nora Bond, at Nora.Bond@tufts.edu.