Oracle Procurement - Invoice Price Discrepancies

UC San Diego's agreement suppliers provide regularly scheduled catalog updates with new items and prices. Many of these updates occur at the start of the year and may lead to a brief trend of invoices with different pricing. Requisitions in flight, varied release dates, and approval issues are sometimes the cause. Procurement teams were alerted to several recent price mismatches with the Cell Signaling Technology catalog in Advanced Search and have resolved the errors. If you encounter any price discrepancies within Advanced Search please submit a Services & Support case so we can help identify and fix any residual issues.

Tips & Tricks

NEW! Tips for Writing a Strong Business Purpose

A key component of a successful Travel & Entertainment expense report is a strong and valid Business Purpose. The T&E Office has recently seen an influx of expense reports with business purposes that are lacking in details which cause a delay in the review and approval process. When providing a business purpose, it is important to present how attending the business trip or hosting the event is beneficial to the University and aligns with the major functions of teaching, research, patient care or public service, or to any other substantial and bona fide University activity. The more detailed and compelling the justification in the initial submission, the less likely that our office would need to reach out to obtain clarification or send the report back. Below are examples of well-documented business purposes that departments have included in their expense reports. These concise but detailed explanations helped move the process along more efficiently.

- Attended the XYZ Conference to present our research findings and collaborate with other investigators in the field of XYZ
- Hosted the ABC Event to welcome and support new UC San Diego Alumni. This was a great opportunity to connect our new Triton alumni with other Tritons in the region and build mentorships with incoming and current students.
- Retirement celebration event for Employee Z to recognize 30 years of dedicated service to UC San Diego

- Staff event for the XYZ team to celebrate recent fiscal year successes and conduct team building activities
- Invited to the ABC Conference as the keynote speaker in City A. We then learned of an unexpected opportunity to meet with a potential donor in City B thus needed to purchase last minute airfare which was slightly higher in cost due to the lack of advanced notice.

NEW! Travel Allowance Per Diem Reminders

For foreign trips involving multiple locations, group trips of three or more travelers, or when claiming actuals, one has the option of not using the Travel Allowance feature in Concur. Should you choose not to use that feature, please be sure to attach the published Per Diem rate for the destination location(s) from the US Department of State site.

For more information, see the Per Diem \(Travel Allowance\) Blink site.

NEW! Chartstring vs Project on a Concur Expense Report

If a Concur expense report is submitted with chart string (CoA) information that is different from the project and task designated on the Concur expense report, Oracle will actually post the transaction against the correct chart string associated with the project and task.

What does this mean? Approvers do not need to spend time trying to update incorrect chart string information associated with expense reports in their Concur queue (e.g. the fund & function fields), as long as the correct Financial Unit, project and task are entered on the expense report.

Concur does not currently have a way of associating the chart string with POETAF fields. We are working on the ability to make the chart string optional while completing an expense report, which we hope will save time and make this process easier.
