Healthcare sustainability and climate justice, which focuses on decreasing the outsized effects of climate-related themes into several organ blocks, including Airways, Blood, and Circulation and students' motivation to develop the knowledge and skills needed to engage with climate health.

The UCSF climate health community is deeply grateful to Sarah for her tireless dedication to information about the CNI fellowships can be found at...