December 2024

Dear Colleague,

I can't believe this is our last Americas newsletter of 2024. Not sure about you, but time flew for me this year!

As the end of the year nears, our clients in Central and South America find themselves in the middle of their high season. However, there's still availability to enjoy the long summer days in that part of the world (as well as special offers like 4x3 at River House Lodge in Argentina and Hotel Las Torres in Chile).

When you're planning 2025 trips, keep in mind that La Coralina Island House in Panama is conducting nine retreats (more info here). You can also create personalized group retreats using their premises.

Wildlife lovers shouldn't miss the Galapagos Islands, and 2025 is the perfect year to achieve that goal. Ninety-five percent of the archipelago's land area is a national park where you can find more than 45 species of endemic birds, 42 reptiles, 15 mammals and 79 types of large marine animals. Enchanted Expeditions offers six- and eight-day cruises or island hopping using the comfy Enchanted Galapagos Lodge as a basecamp.

The most adventurous travelers should add Guyana to their bucket list. Being the only English-speaking country in South America, it's a must for travelers looking for an off-the-beaten-path destination and rare wildlife like the harpy eagle, black caiman, giant anaconda, jaguar and the arapaima (the world's largest freshwater fish).

The possibilities are endless, and our clients in the Americas can cover almost anything a traveler might desire. And please make sure these destinations are on your clients' travel radar.

On behalf of the Emerging Destinations team, we wish you a Merry Christmas and a healthy and prosperous 2025. Thank you for your continuous support for us and our amazing clients.

Best regards,

Ana (on behalf of Jane, Jenna and Paula)

PS: last week Jane, Jenna and me met at the USTOA Annual Conference in Marco Island, FL. We missed Paula from our team, who was on her way to Morocco!

Meet the Maremmas: Guardians of Patagonia

Everyone knows that dogs are man's best friend. But down in Patagonia, they're also great guardians, playing a crucial role in maintaining the balance of the ecosystem.

They do that by their incredible canine skills to protect flocks of sheep in the heart of Chilean Patagonia.

For many years, the puma posed a constant threat to the families who dedicated their lives to sheep farming — a noble and traditional activity in southern Chile.

Pedaling Patagonia: Mountain Bike at River House Lodge

In the same way that Argentine Patagonia provides ideal conditions for hiking and horseback riding, it's also nirvana for mountain bikers.

River House Lodge can help design your own bespoke cycling routes and provide a guide to lead the way.

For a casual ride, explore the property's diverse trails on a mountain bike. For intermediate riders, Rosales Lagoon makes a great outing. While more experienced cyclists can venture deep into the National Park's rugged terrain. The lodge guides ensure a safe and enjoyable ride, with options for packed lunches and scenic stops.

The Trailforks app offers info and maps and 15 recommended bike rides and 200 overall routes around the town of San Martín de los Andes and Lanín National Park. The routes are rated from Easy (green circle) and More Difficult (blue square) to Very Difficult (black diamond) and at least one Extremely Difficult (double black diamond).

Guyana: The Ultimate Birder's Paradise

With upwards of 820 species — almost 200 of them found in capital city Georgetown — it should come as no surprise that Guyana is one of the world's top destinations to spot a mind-boggling variety of birds.

Of all nature's treasures in this tropical country, the birds are a special highlight for nature enthusiasts, with ample locations and trails suitable for birdwatchers.
