Interfaith Ambassadors, Tufts BILI Fellows, and Lynn Cooper at the Interfaith Leadership Summit in Chicago in August 2022

A Reflection from your University Chaplain

Each Monday and Wednesday at noon in the Campus Center, I join this year's team of Interfaith Ambassadors for our weekly meetings. These are among my favorite hours of the week, talking with and learning from students who are curious about, and deeply committed to, the ways in which we make meaning, build community, and do justice in the world, informed and challenged by our diverse identities, experiences, and practices.

The Interfaith Ambassadors work together to offer campus-wide programs, including the annual spiritual and cultural celebration Pax Et Lux (this year on Thursday, December 8) which brings together students, chaplains, musicians and dance groups for an evening of song, dance, and storytelling related to our many holidays of peace and light. They also take the lead in planning the University Chaplaincy's Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. Day of Community Action, which will take place during the first weekend of February 2023. Meet this year's Interfaith Ambassadors here!

The Ambassador Team is supported by funding from the University Chaplaincy and from an Arthur Vining Davis Foundations grant, now in its second year. This grant includes a focus on the development of a new curricular track for Religious Diversity and Civic Life at Tufts, brings together members of the University Chaplaincy, Tisch College for Civic Life, and the Religion Department in novel ways. You can read more about the grant here.

A new special topics course "Religious Diversity and Civic Life," launched this fall semester. The class includes students from across class years and disciplines, and features a series of guest speakers and teachers from Tufts and the wider Boston community who are engaging with a diverse range of religious texts, case studies, and secondary material to explore these questions. Led by Dr. Peter Levine and Dr. Jennifer Howe Peace of Tisch College, this course centers, as the syllabus describes, the "questions that live at the heart of civic and religious life: Who am I? What is my place in the world? What should I do?" This thread runs throughout our yearly programming too, week-by-week, and in my conversations with the Interfaith Ambassadors and beyond.

We look forward to sharing more about the development of the grant initiative as the academic year continues. For today, I invite you to our many gatherings and events listed below that always ask deeper, compelling questions of us. May we all have the time, space, and support to be with our truths and to encounter others with open hearts and minds.

Pax et Lux,
Reverend Elyse Nelson Winger
University Chaplain

All are welcome to our celebration of hope for All Saints Day. This feast is an opportunity to dwell with the Saints—those who we know and those yet unknown to us. The Saints are always with us, always present and ready to walk with us, seeing us in all of our complexity and humanness. On this day, we remind ourselves of the truth so embedded within our tradition that new life awaits, and that amidst the tides of life, the intergenerational promise of love, connectedness and solidarity remains. For more information please contact Catholic Chaplain Lynn Cooper. All students, staff, faculty, and community members are welcome to attend.

Death Cafe with Humanist Community at Tufts

Friday, November 4, 5:30 p.m. - 7:00 p.m., Interfaith Center

What do you believe happens after death? Does it matter? Would you want to know how/when you're going to die? What does it mean to you to leave a legacy? These are the types of questions we will discuss at this year's Death Cafe, hosted by the Humanist Chaplaincy and the Humanist Community at Tufts (HCAT). At a Death Cafe, people gather to share a meal, eat cake, and discuss our different ideas surrounding death. Our goal is to open the door for conversations about death to help people make the most of their (finite) lives. Rather than a grief support or counseling session, these directed discussions of death have no agenda or objectives, and only hope to explore our thoughts and ideas about death and dying. All are welcome and invited. Please RSVP here by November 2.
