Iceland updates from Iceland ProCruises and Iceland ProTravel

March 2021

Dear Colleague--

Breaking news, Iceland is OPEN! Last week, the country announced that travellers who have been vaccinated and can provide official vaccination documents can enter the country without testing or quarantine. Both Iceland ProCruises and Iceland ProTravel have flexible booking conditions and look forward to welcoming your guests to Iceland and Greenland.

Also, have any clients who are interested in volcanoes? Get them on a plane now! Check out the live feed on the current eruption below.

If you'd like more info on Iceland ProCruises or Iceland ProTravel, schedule a meeting with us here. Please enjoy the latest news from our team below.

Húsavik Conquers Hollywood — Again!

If you thought Húsavik's 15 minutes of fame was over, think again. Because the photogenic little town on Iceland's north shore has done it again, this time with an Oscar nomination for "Húsavik (My Hometown)" as Best Original Song of 2020.

Húsavik's stepped onto the world stage last year when the Netflix movie Eurovision Song Contest: The Story of Fire Saga became pandemic lockdown sensation.

Live Feed from Iceland Volcano

Ever wanted to see a live, volcanic eruption?

The land of fire and ice lives up to its name once again! Last Friday evening, a volcanic eruption started in Fagradalsfjall/Geldingadalur on the Reykjanes peninsula. The eruption is about 40km away from Reykjavik. No harm is to be expected, as this is only a small eruption compared to the eruption of Eyjafjallajokull in 2010 and travellers do not have to expect any restrictions. Most of our team are making the short trip from Reykjavik to see the volcano themselves -- as can any guests. Photo by our guide Hermann Helguson.
