Peabody Newsletter

OCTOBER 2020

On the Cover

The autumn season has arrived on the campus of Phillips Academy Adover. Outside the Peabody, trees begin to take color, changing to bright reds and yellows. As leaves fall and a chill fills the air, our Peabody staff write blogs to scare. We look forward to continuing being a community resource as we explore ways to connect remotely with you. Enjoy this spooky season!

This month's newsletter looks at the spookier side of the Peabody, with posts on our collection of Mexican and Guatemalan masks, giants (spoiler: there were no giants, just people like you and me), and Warren Moorehead's spirit. Thank you for joining us, and if you want more archaeology, check out our webseries Diggin' In!
