Happy New Year! We are hoping that 2021 will see us return to some version of pre-pandemic normalcy. Despite the pandemic, however, we continue to share archaeology and anthropology through classes and collections. Read more about learning opportunities at the Peabody and Peabody Newsletter.

On the Cover

Camp in Snow - The 1944 and 1948 Andover-Harvard Yukon Project was a series of archaeological and geobotanical expeditions carried out jointly by the Peabody and Harvard University in the Shakwak and Dezadeash Valleys of the southwestern Yukon territory of Canada. This image, taken by Hugh Miller Raup on August 23, 1948, depicts a tent within the expedition camp at Burwash. This image is part of a larger collection of over 1,500 images documenting the Yukon Project. Many of these images can be viewed on the Peabody’s Online Collections Catalog. For more information on the Yukon Project check out its publication.
ongoing collections research in this issue of our newsletter, along with some interesting artifacts of cold climates. And, don't forget to sign up for Diggin' In and the monthly meetings of the Massachusetts Archaeological Society!
