October 25th

This year’s competition will be fully virtual and applications are due Workshop, bringing their ideas to life for a final pitch. Along the way are everyone is invited to the brainstorm. Finalists will participate in the Global challenge the status quo by coming up with ideas that can lead to a better Red Bull gives wings to student innovators to drive positive change through its even the world?

Do you have a big idea that changes student life?

Friday at 5:30. Email those who don't own businesses. Meetings are biweekly either Wednesday or aim to help improve entrepreneurial skills, help turn ideas into businesses, and We asked your fellow Foresters for their advice on making it through this innovation.

We know this is a different classroom experience. But we can use it as an opportunity to apply design thinking, creative problem solving, and a resilient practices for online learning. We can reach out and connect with classmates all though we are not together, there are still many ways that our community can connect, celebrate, and come together. We can share our stories and best We started the school year at a distance, but our faculty and College leaders first, I was skeptical about receiving all of my instruction virtually; however, with fewer in-person interactions and more online learning, this semester has been about the new normal...being asked to learn and study in the same environment that I'm being asked to learn and study in the same environment that I'm

What advice do you have for new students?

Learning remotely is like having your peas touching your mashed potatoes.

We have extra time I now have. Read more from Annmarie via Zoom. All the responsibility falls on me to determine what I will do with the library hours because I am at home, and I now have access to my professors the time it takes for me to get from one place to another, dining hall hours, and every part of my schedule because I do not need to base my schedule around

What's fall been like? How has your life changed?

While remote learning was not what anyone was spring, I have had to refocus and reset my mindset.

I am an asynchronous student and learning remotely was a big challenge for me in

What's fall been like? How has your life changed?

We asked your fellow foresters for their advice on making it through this
innovation.

We know this is a different classroom experience. But we can use it as an opportunity to apply design thinking, creative problem solving, and a resilient practices for online learning. We can reach out and connect with classmates all though we are not together, there are still many ways that our community can connect, celebrate, and come together. We can share our stories and best We started the school year at a distance, but our faculty and College leaders first, I was skeptical about receiving all of my instruction virtually; however, with fewer in-person interactions and more online learning, this semester has been
about the new normal...being asked to learn and study in the same environment that I'm
being asked to learn and study in the same environment that I'm

What advice do you have for new students?

Learning remotely is like having your peas touching your mashed potatoes.

We have extra time I now have. Read more from Annmarie via Zoom. All the responsibility falls on me to determine what I will do with the library hours because I am at home, and I now have access to my professors
the time it takes for me to get from one place to another, dining hall hours, and every part of my schedule because I do not need to base my schedule around

What's fall been like? How has your life changed?

While remote learning was not what anyone was
spring, I have had to refocus and reset my mindset.

I am an asynchronous student and
learning remotely was a big challenge for me in

What's fall been like? How has your life changed?

We asked your fellow foresters for their advice on making it through this
innovation.

We know this is a different classroom experience. But we can use it as an opportunity to apply design thinking, creative problem solving, and a resilient practices for online learning. We can reach out and connect with classmates all though we are not together, there are still many ways that our community can connect, celebrate, and come together. We can share our stories and best We started the school year at a distance, but our faculty and College leaders first, I was skeptical about receiving all of my instruction virtually; however, with fewer in-person interactions and more online learning, this semester has been
about the new normal...being asked to learn and study in the same environment that I'm
being asked to learn and study in the same environment that I'm

What advice do you have for new students?

Learning remotely is like having your peas touching your mashed potatoes.

We have extra time I now have. Read more from Annmarie via Zoom. All the responsibility falls on me to determine what I will do with the library hours because I am at home, and I now have access to my professors
the time it takes for me to get from one place to another, dining hall hours, and every part of my schedule because I do not need to base my schedule around

What's fall been like? How has your life changed?

While remote learning was not what anyone was
spring, I have had to refocus and reset my mindset.

I am an asynchronous student and
learning remotely was a big challenge for me in

What's fall been like? How has your life changed?

We asked your fellow foresters for their advice on making it through this
innovation.

We know this is a different classroom experience. But we can use it as an opportunity to apply design thinking, creative problem solving, and a resilient practices for online learning. We can reach out and connect with classmates all though we are not together, there are still many ways that our community can connect, celebrate, and come together. We can share our stories and best We started the school year at a distance, but our faculty and College leaders first, I was skeptical about receiving all of my instruction virtually; however, with fewer in-person interactions and more online learning, this semester has been
about the new normal...being asked to learn and study in the same environment that I'm being asked to learn and study in the same environment that I'm