This year's competition will be fully virtual and applications are due Friday at 5:30. Everyone is invited to the brainstorm. Finalists will participate in the Global Design Challenge. You don't have to be an entrepreneur or an inventor to join – we're looking for people who have a big idea that changes student life.

While remote learning was not what anyone was initially hoping would only last a few weeks in the spring, I have had to refocus and reset my mindset. As we all continue adjusting to a situation that we initially hoped would only last a few weeks in the spring, I have had to refocus and reset my mindset. How has life changed for you? How has learning remotely gone? Do you have a big idea that changes student life? We want to hear your ideas and we might put it in an upcoming newsletter.

We look forward to a productive year ahead. The pandemic has shifted the way we do things, but we can support and encourage ourselves using positive self-talk and seeking growth. We can meet with a community of resilient problem solvers. Even though it might be complicated time, here are their stories...

We started the school year at a distance, but our faculty and College leaders are keeping me motivated because they are expecting, it has become our temporary normal. At Lake Forest College, we can support and encourage ourselves using positive self-talk and seeking growth. We can meet with a community of resilient problem solvers. Even though it might be complicated time, here are their stories...
