Dear Colleague,

Spring has officially sprung here in Saskatchewan — and the snow is almost gone. Not that it matters much as I prepare for another trip to Africa. Yay!

This time, I'll spend a week with EcoTraining experiencing the authentic South African bush before heading to Indaba! (If you're in Durban at the same time, let me know and we'll meet up for tea, coffee, or cocktails . . .)

Don't forget to schedule a call or a one-on-one virtual appointment with me to learn about the newest addition to our African portfolio, Atua Enkop. And TopGuides Bush Camps has an exciting announcement! Read on to find out...

Stay tuned for updates on our cool African clients and my next African adventure!

Warm regards,

Jenna, on behalf of The Emerging Destinations team (Jane, Jenna & Ana)

Africa's Most Beautiful Beach?

Picture in your mind the ideal beach: Pristine white sand as far as the eye can see, warm azure-colored water, enough of a breeze to take the edge of the tropical heat, and not a manmade thing in sight. And did we mention the possibility of having that beach all to your own?

We've found it: Saifish Bay on the Indian Ocean coast of Mozambique. More here.

A Typical (Incredible) Day at EcoTraining

What's it like to undertake an EcoTraining safari guide training course? We get up close and personal with the instructors and students during a 55-day Field Guide Course at Selati Game Reserve in south Africa.

A typical day starts before sunrise with a quick cup of tea or coffee (with breakfast biscuits) and an early morning game drive or bush hike. Warp of well, because it's pretty chilly in the bush until the sun breaches the eastern horizon. More here.
