COVID-19 ANTIBODY TESTING IN LOCAL COUNTY JAILS

The project, COVID19 Antibody Testing in Local County Jails (PI: Jason Andrews), has two specific goals: 1) to determine COVID-19 seroprevalence in local jails through antibody testing; 2) to understand perceptions, attitudes, and behaviors surrounding COVID-19 among people living or working in local jails. Together, alongside their RMHC mentors, Nicole Williams, Bri Seoane, and Juan Hernandez and their community partner, Ronald McDonald House Charities of the Bay Area, the Valley Fellowship program will undertake this study.

Ronald McDonald House Charities of the Bay Area has a mission to "provide[s] communities of support, access to medical care, and hope to eligible families by creating and supporting a network of Ronald McDonald Houses around the world." The organization has been meeting the needs of families infected with COVID-19 and the restrictions of COVID-19 have interrupted the organization’s traditional fundraising events, but families still need housing, food, and support.

In Community, we are inspired every day and honored to get to work alongside you. My hope for the Spring and Summer is that we may find time and space for healing. We acknowledge the loss, injustice, and sacrifice that many have experienced so acutely over the last year. We are inspired every day and honored to get to work alongside you.
