Join Dr. Rosemarie Booze from University of South Carolina for a lecture titled "Post-acute sequelae of HIV-1" on April 20, 2022, from 3 to 4:15 p.m., at Merten 1201 and Zoom.

Join Tom Hansell, Appalachian State University, for a lecture titled "Documenting After Coal" as part of the Geology Seminar featuring Tom Hansell.

Please join us as we commemorate 50 years of faculty, staff, and student achievement; alumni success; and awareness of Robinson Hall and the renovated Harris Theatre, adjacent to the new mini amphitheater that sits on the former site of the university's new meditation garden and the labyrinth. The garden and the labyrinth are now open to the community. The university's new meditation garden and labyrinth offer Patriots a tranquil space to reflect and rejuvenate.

Just in time for spring, George Mason University's new meditation garden and labyrinth are visual artifacts of the university's commitment to wellness and sustainability. This includes highlighting influential mathematicians and statisticians in their fields, as well as showcasing Mason mathematician Cristiana Stan's SIAM Diversity Advisory Committee and the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration's recognition of Mason's work.

Mason's #MasonScience continues to highlight #EarthMonth with the SIAM Diversity Advisory Committee and Mason's Center for Climate Change Communication. For more on the center, visit science.gmu.edu.

In this Issue:
- Mason Science Community
- Research & Discovery
- In the News
- Events
- Join Us Online
- About Mason