CINA’s 2021 Annual RFP invites proposals that will address main challenges represented by the four research themes of the CINA Center.

The CINA team would like to congratulate John Verrico, Chief of Media & Community Relations with the DHS Science and Technology Directorate for receiving American Security Today’s 2021 Media & Community Relations award. This award recognizes individuals who excel in the field of media and community relations, who help promote and share important news with the public.

George Mason University’s Institute of Public Administration is proud to announce the 2021 Annual Research and Development (R&D) Solicitation (RFP).

The CINA Center network has four projects entering the transition phase, multiple new projects coming out of our R&D, and we’re expanding our workforce development efforts.

COVID-19 has impacted every aspect of our lives, and the CINA team continues to work closely with our research partners to find practical solutions.

The CINA team is committed to helping government agencies tell their stories and share important news with the public to ensure the public learns about this great work. This year, we're even more conscious of the need to ensure clear and easy-to-understand communications.

The CINA team is proud of the fact that our projects have an impact from the public and industry, I work with a great team of colleagues who are honest, accountable, and focused, and I found out that they don’t follow the rules

I also learned that from clarity of mission comes a strategy and actions, and this gets and keeps everyone rowing in the same direction, focused on our collectively prioritized results.
