Happy summer! This month's newsletter explores more interesting finds in our photograph archives, highlights from our visit to the American Alliance of Museums (AAM) Annual Meeting, and a farewell to two of our Peabody volunteers. We look forward to seeing what this summer holds!

Retiring Volunteers
Contributed by Marla Taylor

Museums are so often supported by behind-the-scenes volunteer labor and the Peabody Institute is no exception. This month the Peabody said farewell to two of the best volunteers you could ask for – Susan and Quinn Rosefsky.

Ethnographic Photographs - Greater Understanding
Contributed by Deidre Hutchison

Friend of the Peabody, Deidre, expands on her initial findings and potential areas of investigation in the Peabody's photograph collection. Learn more about the 1905 event at the 101 Ranch in Oklahoma and photographer James B. Kent.

American Alliance of Museums Annual Meeting
Contributed by Marla Taylor

The American Alliance of Museums (AAM) held their Annual Meeting in Boston this year. Many other conferences are making their return this summer. The Peabody Institute had the opportunity to present our work in a few different formats. Read on for more!

SUPPORT THE PEABODY

- Peabody Newsletter
  JUNE 2022

- On the Cover
  As we kick off summer and the beginning of Phillips Academy's 2022 Andover Summer Session, we look back to the 2021 season in more ways than one. Big hats and the associated Peabody house site are now found in Maryland. Dig This! students take instruction and scenery and what they discover in this year's summer session.
