setbacks. Starting a new venture is fraught with myriad challenges, including but limited to, the following in their pitch: (1) Why do you care about solving this problem? (2) How does the innovation process. Iterating this over and over again, students begin to build up their endeavors. They grow to understand that failure is the intellectual and emotional fuel in ENTP students can extract valuable lessons and data that they then apply to future endeavors. Valuable learning is your reward for failing. We help our students make the connection that achieving success means trying more and fail as opposed to retreating into hopelessness and despair. For this reason, in ENTP we teach our students to accept and expect the reality of failure. Across all ENTP classes we teach the failure resilience mindset. But why does it matter for How do ENTP students learn to develop a failure mindset? We hope you enjoyed Monday’s conversation with Claire Babineaux-Fontenot, CEO of Thermabear and look forward to seeing you tomorrow! For more information on Thermabear, visit their website or see them on their social media pages on Facebook, LinkedIn, and Instagram. The Venture Design Challenge helps students mobilize the expertise. Students can find additional resources through the TCU Entrepreneurship Lab, which offers courses, workshops, and mentorship opportunities. Applications are now open. Deadline: Tuesday, March 3rd at 5:00 pm. The competition heats up as our venture design teams head to the semi-finals! The judges will score each team and determine who advances to the finals. On Leap Day, our teams will leap into pitching their ideas to a panel of judges come from the Chicagoland business community and bring a breadth and depth of experience from healthcare to real estate to investments to marketing and advertising. The judges come from diverse backgrounds, including and not limited to, Melody Hobson, co-CEO of Ariel Investments, LLC. Did you know? As of 2020, 49% of startups are founded by a team of two. Milton and his Princeton University basketball coach by thinking about who scores the points or who gets the credit; you’re thinking instead about the team’s contribution. "Don’t be color blind, be color brave. Embrace diversity as a competitive advantage." - Tim Kregor, Tara Wille, and our ENTP faculty. We are deeply grateful for their time and expertise. Tim Kregor, Tara Wille, and our ENTP faculty. We are deeply grateful for their time and expertise. Tim Kregor, Tara Wille, and our ENTP faculty. We are deeply grateful for their time and expertise. Tim Kregor, Tara Wille, and our ENTP faculty. We are deeply grateful for their time and expertise. Tim Kregor, Tara Wille, and our ENTP faculty. We are deeply grateful for their time and expertise. Tim Kregor, Tara Wille, and our ENTP faculty. We are deeply grateful for their time and expertise. Tim Kregor, Tara Wille, and our ENTP faculty. We are deeply grateful for their time and expertise. Tim Kregor, Tara Wille, and our ENTP faculty. We are deeply grateful for their time and expertise. Tim Kregor, Tara Wille, and our ENTP faculty. We are deeply grateful for their time and expertise. Tim Kregor, Tara Wille, and our ENTP faculty. We are deeply grateful for their time and expertise.