Scholarship and fellowship recipients

College of Science joins the Clemson University family in congratulating coach Dabo Swinney and his ultra-talented team of coaches and players. Up next: three out of four?

En route to their second national championship in three years, the Clemson Tigers became the first team in the modern era to go 15-0, anointing the 2018-2019 squad as the “greatest college football team of all time.” The Tigers crushed the vaunted Alabama Crimson Tide 44-16 on Jan. 7 in Santa Clara, California. True-freshman quarterback Trevor Lawrence led the charge, playing with a calm and maturity well beyond his years. The following Saturday, tens of thousands of Tigers fans from across the country attended a championship parade and celebration in downtown Clemson and at the stadium. The Tigers were crowned national champions for the third consecutive year.

Clemson researchers work with citizen-scientists to better understand diversity of rattlesnake venom

The discovery that Mojave Rattlesnakes have multiple venom types that are more widespread than previously believed required a large research collaboration between principal investigators, graduate students, undergraduate students, and almost 100 citizen-scientists in five laboratories across the United States and Mexico. The research was published in Scientific Reports.

Perfect in every way

In route to their seventh national championship in three years, the Clemson Tigers have demonstrated their excellence on and off the field. In what was a six-year span from 2011-2016, coach Dabo Swinney led his team to a 147-28 overall record and the College of Charleston named him the Carolina Coach of the Year – three times.

The 2018-2019 Clemson Tigers are on a mission to bring a title back to Tiger Town. The Tigers, led by head coach Dabo Swinney, will look to win their first championship since 2016.

Workshop to focus on the rising field of Data Science

Learn from Clemson researchers how the tools of data science are being used to solve problems and impact the world around us. Topics will include statistics, algorithms, analytics, optimization, and machine learning. Faculty, staff and students are strongly encouraged to attend.

“Perfect in every way” – the seminar series will run on Mondays from 5:30-6:30 p.m. in the Watt Center, room 106. New lecture series promotes professional development to SCIENCE students

The College of Science is piloting a new seminar series to bring SCIENCE undergraduate and graduate students with the professional development skills they will need to find the enrichment opportunities they want across the University. Dubbed Science Engagement and Professionalism, the seminar series will cover different topics throughout this spring semester. The first seminar will focus on citing sources in your research, while other seminars will cover professional networking, giving an effective presentation, and other professional development skills. Seminars are targeted to SCIENCE students, but are open to all. Find out more about SCIENCE: Visit clemson.edu/science

As you set your 2019 goals, I offer you this for your consideration: “I will be the absolute best I can – every day – in the classroom, in the field, in the lab, in my life.” As your professors, advisors, family, and peers push you to generate new ideas, to focus and work harder, and to be resilient in your pursuit of excellence, please remember that image of Coach Swinney and the Tiger Town parade. The image that says: “I am confident in me.”

As we relentlessly pursue excellence in science, we may not have national championships, but we will have a tremendous positive impact as we tackle tomorrow’s greatest scientific challenges.

Have the best Spring Semester!

Go Tigers!
